Thanks for the joke. I've made our council office aware of the problem through thousands of emails, photos and even a calendar. You know how many times I've been contacted by the council office? ZERO. So, rumor has it you want to be the next Councilman for the 15th

District. If you like the proposed solutions, feel free to adopt them or discuss them with the current council member you are frequently seen with. If you do not like them, come up with new ones because what the current council office is doing is NOT WORKING and saying "DITTO" doesn't cut it.

To make matters worse, I'm told by a Chamber official we cannot have local solutions. That unless a solution is possible for all of L A, San Pedro cannot adopt one. In other words, the community of San Pedro has to have an approach that is feasible and adopted by all of Los Angeles. Why? I'm told San Pedro is a part of Los Angeles and cannot act on its own. This thought process probably explains why you think it's appropriate to go to the City Council to get permission to use the parking lot at 7th and Beacon.

Here's another proposed solution. Let the Port find land where a large Urban Camper Camp can be housed. You're a Harbor Commissioner and maybe you can find a spot for them on the acreage the Port controls.

Bob,

Thanks for the continued updates on the Urban campers in DTSP. Was wondering if you are going to take your proposals below to the full City Council and make public comment or have you already submitted these in writing to each council member?

Subject: 8th street

Once again, a special Congrats to Donna and her article that went on the Drudge Report. The comments attachment went from 2 to 205 once the Nation read the article and what's happening locally. I'm just guessing, but I would say, this is probably the most read article in Donna's history. Too bad it is on an issue the City refuses to solve with anything other than words ("DITTO") and Council motions.

Here's a proposed solution. If the Urban Campers are allowed to sleep on a public place make it the City parking lot at 7th and Beacon. The parking lot is certainly large enough and substantially vacant after 6 pm. Every morning the Urban Campers can be awoken at 6am by City workers coming to the Municipal building. All the Urban Campers would be at one place and their belongings could be stored against one of the parking lot walls.

Here's another proposed solution. Pass an ordinance that prohibits an Urban Camper from staying on a the same sidewalk for more than 24 hours. Include a 6 block required relocation per night. At least no one place would have them camped out their front door for more than a day.

Here's another solution. Wherever they are, make them comply with the Court's Order and have them "Up and Adam" at 6 am and not 10.

See this morning's photos. By the way, this is the definition of "Ditto."
